WOMAN MURDERED

She Was Brained With An Ax after Returning Home from Church.

There is no Clue—Pension Commissioner Evans Resigns His Position

THE LATEST TELEGRAPH NEWS.

BRUTALLY MURDERED.

Williamsburg, Ky., March 28.—Mrs. Green Alder was brutally murdered at her home at Saxton, Ky., eight miles north of Jellico, Tenn., last night. The murderer escaped, and there is no clue to his identity, and no known motive for his horrible crime.

Mr. and Mrs. Alder returned home from church services about 9 o'clock, and Mrs. Alder unlocked the front door while Mr. Alder went to the henry to investigate the supply of eggs.

A moment later he heard his wife scream, and running to the front door of the house, he saw an unknown man making his escape from the front door.

Alder found his wife prostrate on the floor in a pool of blood, and she lived but a short time. She had been brained with an ax, which was found beside her covered with blood. The murderer had concealed himself in the house, and struck the deadly blow as she entered. Some are of the opinion that it is the fatal termination of some long affair of long ago.

Mrs. Alder was a young woman, and she and her husband had been married but a short time. She was a daughter of Andrew Beems, a leading citizen of the county. There is much excitement, especially about the mining camp sections, and posses are scouring the country in every direction, and in case any arrest is made there is likely to be violence.

PENSION COMMISSIONER

RESIGNS.

Washington, March 28.—Commissioner of Pensions Evans has placed his resignation in the hands of the President, but it will not take effect until some important position is found in the diplomatic service for him. The pension commission appointed at the last meeting of the G. A. R. to investigate the affairs of the pension bureau has made its report to the President. It has not been decided when the report will be made public, if at all.

MEETING OF CONGRESS.

Washington, March 28.—The house devoted the day to the consideration of the private pension bills. Some routine work preceded the regular order.

MONUMENT FUND MEETS.

Frankfort, March 28.—The Goebel monument commission has been called to meet at the Capital hotel on April 3 next. The purpose is to select a design for the tomb to be placed in the state cemetery over the remains of the late Senator Goebel.

BIG CONTRACT.

New York, March 28.—The British government has made a contract with the London branch of a large American packing firm for 220,000 cases of canned beef, to be delivered in London for the British army, and for 500,000 pounds of sliced bacon in tin cans for prompt shipment. This is said to be the largest single consignment of canned beef on record, and is mostly for two-pound cans.

COLOR LINE.

Jackson, Miss., March 28.—All the motormen and conductors in the employ of the Jackson street railway company went out on a strike this morning because the manager of the system sent a negro out as motorman with one of the cars. It was an extra car, but the employees ran their cars into the barn. The negro was discharged an hour later, and the men went back to their work.

BAZAAR.

The ladies of the Broadway Methodist church will hold an Easter bazaar Saturday, March 29, at Oehl.

HIS LAWYER IS HOT

Says He is Disgusted With Christmas And the Way He Has Acted

Great Sensation Sprung in the House Yesterday by a Bribery Resolution.

AN INVESTIGATION TO FOLLOW

New York, March 28.—Carl Fischer Hansen of this city, who was attorney for Walter Christmas, the representative of the Danish government in the overtures for the purchase of the Danish West Indies in 1900, has expressed the deepest indignation at the conduct of his client has apparently shown in his secret report to the Danish ministry lately published. "Ordinarily legal etiquette would prevent my speaking," he said today, "but this report is so defamatory and outrageous that I feel justified in washing my hands of the whole affair."

The report created a great sensation in the house yesterday afternoon, when it was presented, and has precipitated an almost international sensation.

Mr. Richardson of Tennessee, the minority leader, offered as matter of privilege, a resolution for the appointment of a committee of five to investigate the charges said to have been made by Walter Christmas, a semi-official representative of the government of Denmark, in a secret report to his government, in which it was made to appear that he was to receive $500,000 for the purchase money for the sale of the Danish West Indies for bribing newspapers and members of congress.

The resolution was very long and detailed, and its reading created great excitement on both sides of the house.

Mr. Payne, the majority leader, immediately made the point of order that the matter presented was not privileged.

"When did the gentleman obtain access to the secret archives of the Danish government?" interposed Mr. Payne, sarcastically.

Speaker Henderson at this point called attention to the fact that the language of the resolution charged that newspapers and members of congress had been bribed.

"Members of congress," he said, "did not necessarily include members of the house. If members of the senate, that body must be the custodian of its own morals." He thought if the resolution was to be privileged it should specifically include members of the house.

"I am prepared to say," replied Mr. Richardson, "that these charges do include members of the house, and will amend the resolution to that extent."

Speaker Henderson thereupon ruled that the matter was privileged.

The resolutions were then perfected by the insertion of "it is alleged" before all assertions of fact. At the suggestion of Mr. Lacey of Iowa the reference in the resolution to newspapers was changed to read, "newspapers or press associations." With these changes the resolutions were put to a vote, and were carried without a dissenting voice.

The excitement then subsided, and the house turned to the consideration of the army appropriation bill.

LAWYER PATRICK.

IS BROTHER-IN-LAW OF A FORMER WELL KNOWN PADUCAHAN.

The conviction of Lawyer Albert T. Patrick, in New York, for the alleged murder of Millionaire Rice of Texas is of unusual interest in Paducah because the prisoner is a near relative of a man who formerly lived here and now has many Paducah friends. This is Mr. John Milliken, a former Paducahan, who went to St. Louis some years ago and amassed a fortune, now having the finest residence there. Mr. Milliken married a Miss Patrick, sister to the convicted man, and everything that money could do was done

PADUCAH ATTORNEYS FILE A CLAIM FOR DAMAGES AT SMITHLAND.

Attorneys Hendricks and Miller will today file in the Livingston county court a suit to recover damages to the amount of $2,000 in favor of John R. Hawkins against the Hillman Land and Iron Co. He was in the employ of the company, working in the yards, when one of the teams ran away and caused a piece of timber to strike him and break a leg. For this and other slight injuries he sues.

CANCER REMOVED.

OPERATION PERFORMED THIS MORNING BY DR. TROUTMAN.

Dr. J. F. Troutman this morning performed an operation on Mr. Kelley Franklin of Meyer street, and removed a cancer from under the right arm.

This makes the second time the cancer has been removed, but the first time medicine alone was used, and today the knife was brought into service.

ALDERMANIC BOARD

Opposition Developing in the Council
To More than four or Six.

Some Councilmen think there Should First be Some Need for Eight

NO NEW APPOINTMENTS BEEN MADE

It is probable that the aldermanic board will have but six, or possibly four, members, instead of eight, the number the mayor wants. The council decides the number, and some of the members are outspoken in their opposition to the number prescribed in the ordinance passed by the aldermanic board itself.

One member, who referred to the board as the "upper crust," stated that it looked to him like the most unmitigated gall for a newly appointed board to meet, and without investigating the requirements of the city, or the expense that would be incurred, increase its number to eight members. It is true, it is understood that they were only complying with the behests of the mayor, but they should have more regard for the welfare of the people and the advisability of curtailing the expenses of city government, which will be large enough as it is, than to take such hasty and inadvisable action. This seems to be the opinion of more than one councilman.

One plan suggested is that of having four, or possibly six aldermen until just before the November election, when the members of the board are to be elected by the people, and then if the council deems it advisable after seeing how it works with four or six aldermen, increase the number, if it is deemed expedient.

Another question that will arise is the legality of the appointment of the aldermen, and the subsequent organization, election of a president and passage of an ordinance fixing the number of the board at eight. If the mayor must receive official notice of the transfer of Paducah to the second class, the appointments have been premature and illegal.

Mayor Yeiser stated today that he would not call the council together until he received the official notice he has sent for. He also said he has not decided on any of the other appointments he is to make when the new changes take effect.

SOLDIERS WANT PAY.

MASON COUNTY GUARDS SUE
FOR $7,000 FOR SERVICES.

Frankfort, Ky., March 28.—Suit has been brought in the Franklin circuit court against Governor J. C. W. Beckham and Adjutant General D. R. Murray for the pay due the Mason county guards from February 6, 1900, to May 25, 1900, while on duty at Frankfort. The amount involved is about $7,000.

The time for which the soldiers demand pay was between the issuance of the Goebel proclamation on February 5, discharging the soldiers, and the decision of the United States supreme court on May 25, after which Adjutant General Collier turned over the troops to Adjutant General John A. Castleman.

The suit follows a late decision of the appellate court, allowing a number of clerks in the department their salaries until the decision of the higher court placed the Democratic administration in charge. If this suit should be successful it would be followed by others asking pay for all of the Taylor militia for this time, which would amount to approximately $50,000.

THE WEATHER.

APPARENTLY HEAVY RAINFALL
HAS BEEN LIGHT.

The rainfall since Wednesday has been slight, probably slighter than appearances will lead to believe.

Wednesday morning the rainfall was only .75, and last night the gauge showed only .92, a slight increase over Wednesday. More rain is predicted, however, as the following weather report will show:

For Kentucky—Saturday, rain and colder, except fair in the extreme western portion.

FIVE DOLLARS A BOX

THE PRICE CUT NO FIGURE WITH HIM.

"I want to say for the benefit of some poor dyspeptic that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will give comfort and a cure every time. Five dollars a box would not stop my purchasing them should I ever suffer again as I did for a week before using them.

The one 50 cent box I bought at my druggist's did the work and my digestion is all right again.

Many of my neighbors have also tried these tablets and found them to be just as represented and Mr. Ellms also wants me to use his name in endorsing Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Signed

A. ELLMS AND CHAS. F. BUZZELL,

Asst. Postmaster,
South Sudbury, Mass.

Mrs. James Barton, of Toronto, Canada, writes: "For eighteen months I suffered from what I supposed was bladder and kidney trouble, and took medicine from three different doctors, without any sign of a cure. I felt so ill at last I was hardly able to do my work."

"I thought I would try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and see if they would make me feel better, never really thinking I had dyspepsia, but after only three or four tablets had been taken all the acid trouble disappeared and then I discovered I had acid dyspepsia, while the doctors had been treating me for kidney and bladder trouble and one of them treated me for rheumatism."

"My digestion is fine, my complexion clear and I am able to do my work and low spirits are unknown to me."

"I am so thankful for finding a cure so good and so pleasant to take as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I am surprised at the change they have made in me."

All druggists sell and recommend Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because they contain only the simple natural digestives, and taken after meals prevent acidity and cause prompt digestion and assimilation of food.

Physicians everywhere endorse them because they are as safe for the child as for the adult; they are invaluable for sour stomach, nervous dyspepsia, heartburn, gas on the stomach and bowels and every form of stomach derangement.

DISTASTE FOR DESERTERS

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ANNOUNCES THAT THIS CLASS OF MEN CANNOT FIND
FAVOR WITH HIM.

Washington, March 28.—President Roosevelt declared that so long as he is in office no deserter from the army or navy would find favor with him. The statement was made to Captains Frank Bruner and Ford McDonough of Lytle post, G. A. R., of Cincinnati, who handed him a set of resolutions from the ex-Union soldiers of Cincinnati condemning the restoration of deserters to the rolls and approving his course in vetoing certain bills recently passed by Congress.

NEW BUILDINGS.

The New Masonic-Odd Fellows Building
ing a Certainty.

Final Settlement of Questions Monday—
Palmer House annex.

It is stated that the new Masonic Odd Fellows' building, to be erected here on the site adjoining the custom house, will be begun within two months. The members of the building committee now have under advisement a plan which it is thought will result in the immediate erection of the structure, which will cost about $40,000.

The plan is not given out, and the matter will be finally settled Monday night, but there is practically little prospect of its being abandoned, and ground will doubtless be broken this spring and the work pushed to completion.

The site cost $12,000, and the plans were drawn by Architect Davis some time ago. All necessary to do is to arrange for the money and begin the work.

The Kentucky theatre was built with the intention of erecting in the foreground an annex to the Palmer House. The exterior plans for this annex were drawn some time ago, and are virtually a duplicate of the present Palmer House front. The interior is now being drawn by Architect Brainerd, and when completed, bids for it will be asked, and if they are satisfactory the annex will be built this spring.

It is by no means certain, however, that it will be built, as with existing conditions here, and the increase in the cost of building by reason of advances in the wages of workmen, the bids may be too high, and the hotel company may decide it is inadvisable to build the annex for a year or two longer. The additional cost to contractors by reason of the increases in wages will of course have to be ultimately paid by those building houses, hence it is uncertain how high the bids for the work may go.

Work on all buildings in course of construction is being pushed with the greatest possible speed, on account of the doubt and uncertainty that lingers about developments next week, when the time arrives for carpenters and contractors to agree or fall out. Nothing has yet been done, and in case the carpenters go out it will paralyze building here until everything is settled.

Nothing has been heard for some time of the contemplated enlargement of the government building, but a congress will be in session for some time yet, the bill for the appropriation may yet pass.

It develops that there was absolutely nothing in the report that a deal was on for the Loeb property at Fifth and Broadway to erect a first class restaurant by Mr. Louis Seelbach of Louisville. A letter received from Mr. Seelbach today so states.

ONE GENERAL NOT IN TAILS.

CAPTURE OF NORIEL LEAVES
ONLY ONE FILIPINO COMMANDING OFFICER IN THE FIELD.

Manila, March 28.—Noriel, the only insurgent general with the exception of Malvar, still in the field, has been captured by Lieutenant Frank E. Bamford of the Twenty-eighth infantry.

A major, a captain, a lieutenant and five men, who were acting as a body guard to Noriel, were captured with him. They have all been held as prisoners of war. There is some reason to believe that one member of this body guard is General Malvar in disguise. Lieutenant Bamford is certain that if this general is not one of the captured party, he is in the immediate neighborhood of the place of Noriel's capture.

Noriel has been one of the recognized leaders of the insurrection since 1899. He was captured on his way to the coast while endeavoring to escape. He admits that the insurrection, as such, is over, and says that the few remaining leaders are fleeing, as they do not command enough men to warrant surrenders commensurate with their rank.

ASKING AN EXTRA SESSION.

Lancaster, Ky., March 28.—Leading Democrats are circulating a petition to the governor to call an extra session

SCROFULA

I bequeath to my children Scrofula with all its attendant horrors, humiliation and suffering. This is a strange legacy to leave to posterity; a heavy burden to place upon the shoulders of the young.

This treacherous disease dwarfs the body and hinders the growth and development of the faculties, and the child born of blood poison, or scrofula-tainted parentage, is poorly equipped for life's duties.

Scrofula is a disease with numerous and varied symptoms; enlarged glands or tumors about the neck and armpits, catarrh of the head, weak eyes and dreadful skin eruptions upon different parts of the body show the presence of tubercular or scrofulous matter in the blood. This dangerous and stealthy disease entrenches itself securely in the system and attacks the bones and tissues, destroys the red corpuscles of the blood, resulting in white swelling, a pallid, waxy appearance of the skin, loss of strength and a gradual wasting away of the body.

S. S. S. combines both purifying and tonic properties, and is guaranteed entirely vegetable, making it the ideal remedy in all scrofulous affections. It purifies the deteriorated blood, makes it rich and strong and a complete and permanent cure is soon effected. S. S. S. improves the digestion and assimilation of food, restores the lost properties to the blood and quickens the circulation, bringing a healthy color to the skin and vigor to the weak and emaciated body.

Write us about your case and our physicians will cheerfully advise and help you in every possible way to regain your health. Book on blood and skin diseases free.

"We Aim to Please and Satisfy the People"

To the Citizens of Paducah:

We desire to call your attention to the following statement made by twenty-five of the prominent business men of Lexington, Ky. (The original is on file and can be seen at our office):

LEXINGTON, KY., Feb. 8th, 1902.

To Whom it May Concern:

We, the undersigned citizens, business men of Lexington, Ky., are glad to state that the undoubted effect of the establishment of an independent telephone exchange in Lexington has been in every way beneficial to the business interests and social pleasure of the citizens of Lexington. The independent company has been in operation nine months, during which time the use of the telephone has increased over 150 per cent., and the efficiency and availability of the telephone for business purposes has increased beyond computation. Before the installation of the plant of the Independent Company there were less than 800 telephones in use in the city of Lexington. The Independent Company alone now has SIXTEEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-THREE telephones in Lexington and promises to have TWO THOUSAND within the next sixty days. The old company improved its plan as much as possible, and increased its efficiency in every way possible, upon the establishment of the Independent Company. The Independent Company put in a Central Energy Multiple Switchboard, with long distance instruments, which was a revelation to all those who had been accustomed to use the old system furnished by the Bell Company before the Independent Company started. We do not believe that there is a citizen of Lexington who would not most heartily endorse all that we have stated here, nor one who would agree under any circumstances to have the Independent Company stop operations.

QUESTION:—Paducah, a city nearly equal to Lexington in population, surpassing her in commercial importance—growing rapidly—can reap the same or more advantages of the great public utility by supporting The People's Independent Telephone Company. Our system will be the same as Lexington, and all we ask is the opportunity to prove our claims by thirty days' free trial of our telephones. Give your subscription to our solicitors, or send it to 415 1-2 Broadway.

THE SUN'S PUZZLE PICTURE.

OH MAMMA, SEE THE BIRD! WHERE IS IT?

MORE ABOUT GENERAL FORREST'S RAID

A veteran of Clinton, Ky., writes as follows of Forrest's raid on Paducah thirty-eight years ago:

"Having noticed an article or two in The Sun recently in regard to the Forrest raid into Paducah, it strikes me as strange that there are so few people there who seem to remember anything accurate of it. The first raid occurred on the 25th of March, 1864, being Good Friday. The attack was made on the fort between 2 and 3 o'clock p. m. It is folly for any one to say there was no attack on the fort; if not, how do they account for fourteen men killed, to say nothing of the wounded? Only one of these was killed outside the fort. His name was Phipps, and he was killed by a stab wound near where the railroad now crosses Clay street. The other Federal soldiers were nearly all killed from a brick house that was burned during the night following the fight. It stood on the southeast corner of Fourth and Madison. There was also one little girl killed, a Miss Block. She was killed just above the Langstaff sawmill, near the river, by a shot from a gunboat. Another citizen, Wm. Berry, was killed on the north side of Trimble street, at the corner of Fifth. He was the nearest person killed to the fort. Next to him was Colonel A. P. Thompson, who was killed by a cannon ball just opposite the alley between Fifth and Sixth street, on Trimble. He fell about half way between the center of the street and the gutter, on the south side. He was cut entirely in two. Several other Confederates were killed between there and where the old plow factory stood. Six of them were buried in one grave on the north side of the street, on about the second lot east of Sixth street. Beside the twelve or fifteen Confederates killed within range of the fort, one was killed on the east side of market square, another was killed while cutting a telegraph pole on south side of Broadway, between Second street and Maiden alley. He was shot from the alley with a gun that belonged to the writer of this article, but not by the writer. As to the artillery the Confederates had, I can't say, and although Mr. J. V. Grief was in the Confederate army at the time, and likely in this fight, I think it probable he is mistaken as to the size of the guns they had, for they left a caisson (broken down) on the field north-west of Seventh street depot, with twelve-pound ammunition in it. As to Mr. Bleich's statement that the women were so badly scared on this occasion, it is my recollection, and my memory is fairly good, that the men were the worst scared lot I ever saw."

THE RIVER NEWS.

The steamer Jim Duffey left this morning for Cumberland river for ties. Captain Ross commands the Sunshine now. Captain Kirker is off on a rest.

The New South passed up for Cincinnati many hours late last night, with a good trip.

The Pavonia left this morning for Tennessee river with a party from Chicago. She will bring out ties.

The towboat Lyda of the Holcomb Co. fleet arrived from Tennessee river this morning with a big tow of ties.

The steamer Inverness is due out of Cumberland river today with a tow of 30,000 ties for the Ayer and Lord Co.

It is popularly supposed that Noah's ark is the first ship of which we have any record, says the Courier-Journal.

The City of Pittsburgh passed up from Memphis to Cincinnati this morning at 4 o'clock, with an excellent freight and passenger trip.

The three barges of the Ayer and Lord fleet which were sunk at Brookport Wednesday in the wind have been raised and are now ready for service.

The City of Clifton will arrive today from Tennessee river with a good trip. She was due yesterday, but the big business delayed her somewhat. She will leave Saturday on her return trip.

Captain J. W. Warren, the pilot of the steamer Duffey, will make his last trip on that boat this season today. On her return he will go to St. Louis to enter service on the Mississippi river.

The steamer Woolfolk arrived from the mines this morning with a tow of coal for the Paducah Coal and Mining company, and will leave today for the lower Mississippi river to bring up logs for the Palmer and Ferguson mill people.

Observations taken at 7 a. m.

River, 23.9 feet on the gauge, a fall of 2.0 in last twenty-four hours. Wind, southeast, a light breeze. Weather, raining and warmer. Rainfall in last twenty-four hours, 0.90 inches. Temperature, 60 degrees.

Pell, Observer.

Steamboat owners on the Little Kanawha river have begun a rate war. Three boats are now running between Parkersburg and Creston, and it seems that that number can take care of all the freight traffic on the river too easily. The old rate of 16.23 cents per hundred pounds has already been cut to 12.5 cents, and a further reduction to 6.25 cents is anticipated.

but Egypt, that land of mysteries and surprises, shows paintings of boats that were built and navigated at a far earlier period than 2840 B. C., which is the date usually assigned to the flood. It may have been one of her boats thus pictured that provided Noah and his three sons with a proper model for the ark, though the proportions must have been different, or fewer animals must have existed.

This is the season for shipping plasterer's hair, cement, lime and fertilizers, while farming implements come in for send-offs in large lots, but the first four articles named receive more attention from steamboat men than any other commodities. Plasterer's hair is packed in twenty-pound bundles, and they go in lots of from 500 to 5,000 packages, nearly all destined to New Orleans, and from there to all parts of Texas, Mexico and the staets of Central America. Cement goes in barrels, in lots from 100 to 500, with no particular place to land, for it goes everywhere; but the lime shipments go out of this river, while fertilizers are distributed to the valleys of the Ohio and its tributaries.

PNEUMONIA FOLLOWS A COLD.
But never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar. It stops the cough, heals and strengthens the lungs and affords perfect security from an attack of pneumonia. Refuse substitutes.

PAINFULLY HURT.

A CAR REPAIRER STRUCK IN THE FACE BY A HYDRAULIC JACK LEVER.

Mr. R. J. Stookman, a car repairer in Foreman Wheeler's gang, met with a serious accident this morning while at work at the jacking track. He was jacking up a car with a hydraulic jack, when the lever slipped and caught him in the face. His mouth was badly cut and bruised and a tooth knocked out and several others loosened up. He was sent to the hospital, where his injuries were dressed, and then returned to his home on Gould avenue. The injuries, while painful, are not serious, and he will probably return to work tomorrow. His many friends will regret to learn of the accident.

Y. M. C. A. LIBRARY.

VALUABLE ADDITIONS TO BE MADE TO IT.

Secretary Escott of the local Y. M. C. A. will this week order a set of books for the library which will make a valuable addition to that department of the association.

The books will number 7, and will cost $18. They are illustrated in colors, and treat of animals and plants, being very instructive, as well as interesting to the reader. There are no books of this kind at present in the library, and they have been needed for some time.

Secretary Escott has already added two of the books treating of the new additions to the United States, Cuba and the Philippines, and they are read as much as any books in the library.

Beginning with Tuesday the association athletes will organize the business men's class in athletics again and the regular meeting will be held on Tuesday and Thursday nights, and the young men's class meet nights have been changed to Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, for convenience to the business men.

THE NEW REPUBLIC.

CONGRESS ASKED TO AUTHORIZE REPRESENTATION THERE.

Washington, March 28.—The President this afternoon sent to Congress a message recommending provision for diplomatic and consular representation in Cuba.

The President cited the provisions of the act of March 2, 1901, whereby our government promised to leave the government of Cuba to the Cubans under certain conditions.

He recommends that provision be made and the salaries appropriated, to be immediately available for:

Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the Republic of Cuba, $10,000.

Secretary of the legation, $2,000.
Second secretary of the legation, $1,500.

Consul general at Havana, $5,000.
Consuls at Cienfuegos, $3,000; Santiago de Cuba, $3,000.

INDICTMENTS AT MAYFIELD.

Mayfield, March 28.—The circuit court grand jury which just adjourned returned forty-two indictments against Lindo Murphy for illicit selling of whiskey in the city of Mayfield. Bond was fixed at $4,200, and Messrs. Friedman, Keller and Co. of Paducah is his security.

GUN CLUB SHOOT POSTPONED.

The first shoot of the Paducah Gun club, which was to have been held this afternoon at LaBelle park, was declared off by Captain Ben Weille on account of the inclement weather. The live birds are here and will be kept until next week.

RAW OR INFLAMED LUNGS

Yield rapidly to the wonderful curative and healing qualities of Foley's Honey and Tar. It prevents pneumonia and consumption from a hard cold settled on the lungs.
J. C. GILBERT.

A SMALL CROWD OUT.

"The Village Parson" was presented to a small crowd at The Kentucky last night. The play was played here earlier in the season, and is an excellent one of its kind. From here it went to Cairo.

MAYFIELD'S COUNTY FAIR.

Mayfield will probably not have a carnival this year, but a county fair. preparations are now on foot to decide the question, and the people are said to be almost universally in favor of it.

OLD CUSTOM.

EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA WASHES THE FEET OF TWELVE MEN IN PRESENCE OF THE NOBILITY.

Vienna, March 28.—Emperor Francis Joseph yesterday (Maundy Thursday) performed at the Hofburg the traditional ceremony of washing the feet of twelve aged men. The nobility and the diplomatic corps, including the United States Minister Robert S. McCormick, Chandler Hale, the secretary of the United States legation; Captain Floyd Harris, military attache, and Mrs. Harris witnessed the ceremony, after which His Majesty hung bags of money on the necks of the participants, whose aggregate age was 1,070 years. The old men wore ancient Dutch costumes.

The ages of twelve women recipients of the imperial mummy gifts aggregated 1,182.

TWO RIGHTS OF WAY.

BUT THERE WILL BE A PROTEST AGAINST ONE OF THEM, IT SEEMS.

A protest, it is understood, will be made to the city council by the local projectors of a railroad to Cairo against the council granting the Illinois Central right of way down Ninth street, as it has already granted the former road right of way over that thoroughfare.

It is not known what position the council will take in the matter, but it is claimed by some that a city cannot keep a trunk line out, and therefore cannot prevent the Illinois Central coming in over that street. A city may prevent the construction of side-tracks and belt lines, it is alleged, but cannot keep out a trunk line. It is possible that a lively fight will ensue over the two rights of way. The Illinois Central claims that both tracks can easily go down the same street, in case two roads are built.

APPELLATE CONVENTION.

THE COMMITTEE HAS BEEN CALLED TO MEET HERE APRIL 15.

The committee of the appellate district is called by Chairman Mott Ayres to meet at Paducah on April 15 to name the manner and time to nominate a Democratic candidate for judge of the court of appeals from this district.

A SEVERE COLD FOR THREE MONTHS.

The following letter from A. J. Nushbaum of Batesville, Ind., tells its own story. "I suffered for three months with a severe cold. A druggist prepared me some medicine, and a physician prescribed for me, yet I did not improve. I then tried Foley's Honey and Tar, and eight doses cured me." Refuse substitutes.
J. C. GILBERT.

THE COAL WAS LOADED.

Eminence, Ky., March 28.—Charles W. Bauer, a druggist, put a lump of coal in the stove at his store, when an explosion followed, blowing off the top of the stove and doing damage to stock to the amount of $200. Fortunately those who happened to be in the room escaped without a scratch. The cause of the explosion is not known.

DANGERS OF PNEUMONIA.

A cold at this time if neglected is liable to cause pneumonia, which is so often fatal, and even when the patient has recovered the lungs are weakened, making them peculiarly susceptible to the development of consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar will stop the cough, heal and strengthen the lungs and prevent pneumonia.
J. C. GILBERT.

SALE OF NEWSPAPER.

Bowling Green, Ky., March 28.—The News has been sold to Morton B. Gaines of Jackson, Tenn., son of John B. Gaines. Euclid C. Cooksey, proprietor of the News, will go elsewhere.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR

Cures coughs and colds.
Cures bronchitis and asthma.
Cures croup and whooping cough.
Cures hoarseness and bronchial troubles.
Cures pneumonia and la grippe.

DAILY THOUGHT.

"If one is today more patient, more serene, more loving, more sympathetic than he was yesterday, he is truly advancing and his life is successful."

AN INVESTIGATION FAVORED.

Appropos recent insinuations of the success of improper influences in the last legislature of Kentucky, the Lexington Herald, a Democratic paper, demands more explicit charges and an investigation. It says that statements have appeared in quite a number of the country papers that reflected upon unnamed members of the legislature and intimations of the success of unnamed but described lobbyists. It has been said that the owner and editor of a well known Democratic paper and perhaps two equally well known officials were in some sort of partnership in schemes and plans to influence legislation; and were openly there to be employed to aid in the passage or in the defeat of measures pending before the legislature. We know nothing personally concerning the denials at Frankfort; and we are always reluctant to believe such reports. But when grave accusations are made by respectable editors as of their knowledge, the charge assumes a graver importance. In a recent number of the Glasgow Times appears the following: "Not for many years have the lobbyists assembled in so formidable numbers, or their labors borne such fruits, as through the sessions of the Kentucky legislature just closed. During the two preceding legislatures the third house kept well under cover, but in the present general assembly it threw off all concealment and defied even the small restraint of decency. Lobbying was an open business, and the lobbyist boldly proclaimed his profession."

"The editor of the Times is Jas. B. Richardson, a member of the legislature of some years ago; and was then elected one of the prison commissioners, and was re-elected by this legislature. His duties as representative and as commissioner have required him to be in Frankfort at the sessions of the legislature for the past six years; and he knows whereof he speaks. His statements, therefore, are both a charge and the testimony to support the charge."

"Who were these lobbyists, and what were the 'fruits' which were born of their labors? Can not this editor do the state service by frankly and courageously making public the names of these brazen lobbyists, and also publishing what he means by the charge that their labors bore 'fruit'? What measures did they succeed in having passed? What measures did they kill?"

"This is not political or party question. This is far above mere partisan politics, or personal self-seeking. It is due to the honest and incorruptible members that the guilty be exposed. 'Dead flies maketh the apothecaries ointment to stink'—who were these dead flies?"

"If there be any admixture of politics in this matter, it is that it is due to the Democratic party that the names of the corrupt be made known and the reputation of the majority be not spotted or the party be held responsible."

"A prejudiced, bigoted, violent, partisan, blinded legislature has been known in the history of our state. But an openly corrupt legislature is not inable deeds have been done. But not through coarse and vulgar bargains have our legislatures disgraced the state and themselves. For the honor of Kentucky, for the good name of the Democratic party those who have knowledge of corrupt transactions ought to publish the names of the corrupt members and equally corrupt lobbyists."

LET'S SETTLE IT NOW.

There has been some little talk about the term of office of the mayor expiring in two years, instead of four. This far one statement is about as good as another, and no matter which side is right in its contentions, the final settlement will have to be in the courts and at a great expense to some one, and annoyance to the public, unless a settlement is made before it can go to a legal test. The question whether officers elected under the third class charter can serve out the terms under the second class charter when to so serve may conflict with the state statutes, is a matter that should be settled at once. Another mooted question is whether or not the present officers can hold over under the second class charter at all. It is hoped that no official will have to defend a damage suit for performing duties unauthorized by law. If all officials would relegate to the background for a time all ideas of personal rights and privileges and allow those of the public to be considered, the questions might be definitely settled now without subsequent complications. The public does not desire to be hoodwinked by depending on officers who think of little else than emoluments and salaries. It ought to be determined now, and the officers ought to want it determined now, just how far the law will sustain them in their present positions, and whether or not they are holding office legally, and if so just how long they can continue to hold office legally.

The citizens who favor and work for the advancement of Paducah are doubtless well pleased with the first four aldermanic appointments of Mayor D. A. Yeiser, and trust that the next four will be equally as gratifying. The new style Democrats may wince a little when they think them over, but those citizens who have the welfare of Paducah and the expansion and increase of her institutions and industries at heart, will heartily applaud. On the board there is a manufacturer and a wholesale merchant, a gentleman who has been in the employ of a large corporation for twenty years or longer and is said to own stock in it, and at least three are large investors in corporations. Two are directors in banks and three own bank stock, and all will agree that such men cannot go astray in matters of public policy. They are substantial business men who will hesitate before they disturb our many public utilities or do the "gouge" act against our struggling corporations. Even if two or more of them were Democrats who voted for McKinley, they voted for one of the best and greatest presidents we ever had, and are to be commended for being Democrats of above the average judgment and intelligence. As The Sun stated, the usual Democratic follies will find small place with such able men, and even if Mayor Yeiser attempts to even things up by his next four appointments to satisfy his party following, he can't spoil the board now.

It looks as if the city thinks it has the Illinois Central where it wants it, and the Illinois Central thinks it has the city where it wants the city. The council is trying to get possession of a strip of river front property to use as a wharf, and the railroad company is trying to get a right of way down Ninth street for their Cairo road. If the city doesn't get the river front property, it is safe to say, judging from the past methods of the council, that the railroad will not get the right of way, and if the railroad does not get the right of way down Ninth street, it is a good bet that the city will not get any part of the river front property. In regard to protests, however, the people will doubtless be in favor of showing no partiality, and if one road is given right of way down the street, give the other one right of way also. There is no dodging the fact that there will be but one road built to Cairo, although it is not certain who will build it.

Newspaper dispatches say that F. Wharton Golden, the plant tool of Tom Campbell and the Goebel brothers in the conspiracy to "Hang Taylor and damn the Republican party" is dying in New Mexico of consumption. If they were ever put upon trial, says the Lexington Leader. This is sheer nonsense. If a cataclysm were to engulf Golden, Oulton, Noakes, the Strolling Barber and all the lesser galaxy of "star witnesses," as long as the $100,000 corruption fund lasts and the Goebel purse commands the services of Tom Campbell, other witnesses will be found to supply every link and close every gap and reliable juries in Scott and Franklin counties will act the parts assigned them in the "Hang and Damn" conspiracy.

The public doesn't yet understand why the mayor should be waiting for "official notice" of the change from the third to the second class when he has already appointed four aldermen under the second class charter. If the second class charter isn't in effect until official notice is received, the appointment of these aldermen was illegal, and if it was, there is no use waiting for any official or any other kind of notice, as anything done now would be as legal as the aldermanic appointments. The general council ought to have been organized and at work a week ago.

An amended election bill passed by the Kentucky legislature has disappeared mysteriously before it could receive the governor's signature, says the Globe-Democrat. It is suspected that the new measure left something to chance, and that the Goebelites have accordingly suppressed it.

Cecil Rhodes has at least one advantage in being dead. He can't see some of the alleged portraits of himself printed in the papers.

NOTES OF THE RAILROADS

Chief Engineer Harahan of the I. C. left last night at 6:30 for the South, after a several days' business trip in Paducah. He left in his special car, and after a tour of the southern lines will return to Chicago.

Mr. J. F. Wallace, the assistant general manager of the I. C. road, and his wife will arrive in the city this afternoon at 2:45 from St. Louis to visit their son, Superintendent H. U. Wallace, who is ill in the local I. C. hospital.

While the year 1901 broke all records in the matter of railway construction since 1890, it is very probable that the present year will even exceed in number of miles the total railroad construction of the year recently closed.

From January 1 to December 31, 1901, there were 5,222.10 miles of track laid by 362 lines, and while it is out of the question to sort over the projected lines and say which will be built and which will not, a careful compilation of the plans of the various railways, based upon official reports, shows that there are 7,984 miles of railway under construction or under contract. In addition there are 3,790 miles of lines projected for which there are excellent reasons for believing that the greater part will be built during the present year.

It is impossible to say that the lines under contract and under construction will be completed during the year, just as it is impossible to say that the 3,790 miles of proposed roads, which seem to be practically sure of construction, will materialize, but with these figures based upon official reports and conservative examination it appears that the year may result in a heavier railroad construction than the past year, and may even exceed the year 1888, when 7,106 miles were built.

Some of the contracts that are outstanding will scarcely be completed during the year, as the mileage in some cases is so large that a longer period will be required. Steel rails are difficult to secure, and this fact will have its influence toward cutting down the new mileage for the year.

Something New in Mechanics.

Great is the humor of woman—when she doesn't mean it. Great is the nerve of woman—when she doesn't need it. And great are the nerves of woman—when it so pleases her. This combination is blameworthy for the following: A very pretty girl sat in a Long Island railroad train en route for Manhattan Beach. Suddenly the whistle blew. It is perhaps not necessary to say that a Long Island railroad whistle is more efficacious than otherwise. It is tuned to the key of W and is operated with a great diapason, giving out a different brand of yelping shriek than anything known to nature. To repeat, the whistle whistled. "Oooww!" cried the pretty girl; "Isn't that awful? I should think the railroad company would have those things oiled. It is an outrage." Her companion had often heard of wetting whistles, but never before of oiling them. Think it over.—Brooklyn Times.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bradshaw have issued invitations to a reception on Monday evening from 9 to 11 in honor of Miss Mabel Hood.

—"Hello Bill," the play which Manager English will offer his patrons of The Kentucky for popular matinee and popular prices Saturday night is one of the few examples of straight-away legitimate farce now before the American public. Its humor is spontaneous, well balanced and genuine, nor does it require the interpolation of double entendres to exploit its laughter provoking qualities. Although new here, the play has been seen in nearly all of the other leading cities of the county, and in no instance has it failed to justify the claims of its author, or the promises of its manager.

It is moulded in the same crucible that gave birth to "The Maneuvers of Jané," "Miss Hobbs," "My Friend from India," "Why Smith Left Home," and other humorous works of like nature. The cast includes some of the best farceurs in the profession. Seats went on sale this morning.

THE DOG'S GRAVEYARD.

Canine Pets Buried in Expensive Style in Edinburgh.

Edinburgh, Scotland, boasts of the only graveyard where canine pets are regularly interred and their last resting places marked with gravestones. This old cemetery lies on the northern face of the Castle Rock, below St. Margaret's Chapel, in the famous old castle of Edinburgh. It was founded a long time ago for the exclusive use of dogs who have been pets of the various regiments which have been quartered at the castle. Almost two score dogs have been buried in it, and the grave of each one is marked; some with stones as large as are used for human beings, and others merely tiny monuments. The cemetery is enclosed by a low wall of stone, and is always pointed out to visitors as the only one of its kind in the world. Not a little interest attaches to the epitaphs which the stones bear. One is inscribed with the grimly humorous line, "Let Sleeping Dogs Lie," while the merits of another animal are borne testimony to by the statement that "He Never Bit a Friend." Almost every British regiment has with it, whether in garrison or afield, a dog who is the pet and mascot of the organization, and to whom the soldiers become sincerely attached. It was because they did not like to have their pets forgotten when they passed away that they established this little cemetery.

The Best Works.

A story is told of one of the old-time pillars of a New England church who held out firmly for a long time against the innovation of an organ, but when he finally yielded, did so without reserve. From violent opposition he became the most strenuous of all the congregation as to the fitness of the instrument to be purchased. "Seems to me you aren't very consistent," said one economical brother, reproachfully. "Here a month ago you couldn't speak harsh enough about organs, and now you go to advocating extra expense in getting the best that's to be had." "See here!" said the deacon, grimly, "if we're going to worship the Lord by machinery, I don't want to putter round with any second-rate running-gear!"—Youth's Companion.

while not mysterious or miraculous in its curative qualities, is a simple formula prescribed by the best physicians for disorders of the digestive organs. Just little Tabules, easy to take, easy to buy and quick to act. If your trouble is Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Heartburn, and the like, no need of calling a physician. Ripans Tabules contain exactly what he would tell you to take. Permanent cure follows a fair trial. No uncertainty about it.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

There is scarcely any condition of ill health that is not benefited by the occasional use of a R. P. A. S. Tabule, and the price, ten for five cents, does not bear down from any price or justify any one in enduring ill health that can easily be cured. A family bottle containing the tabules is sold for $1.00. For children the chocolate coated ones, 12 for 5 cents, are recommended. For sale by druggists.

DOWIEITES EXILED.

NEARLY 200 FOLLOWERS OF ELIJAH JAH QUARANTINED WITH A CASE OF SMALLPOX IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, March 28.—Discovery of smallpox in the building at 1254-56 Michigan avenue, occupied by John Alexander Dowie as a college, chapel, hotel and publication office of "Leaves of Healing," resulted in 173 Dowieites being quarantined there today. Even if no new cases of the disease develop these followers of Elijah II and nearly a score of servants employed in the place will not be allowed to leave it for twenty days. Three policemen guard the entrances and exits of the building.

John W. Peck vs. Str. I. O. K.

Whereas a libel was filed in the district court of the United States at Paducah, Ky., on the 25th day of March, 1902, by John W. Peck against the Steamer I. O. K., her engines, tackle, apparel, furniture, etc., alleging in substance that said steamer was indebted to him in the sum of $85.00 for wages due from said steamer. That said steamer is justly indebted to him in the said sum; that same has never been paid, and prays process against said boat, and that it be condemned and sold to pay said claim with cost and expenses.

Now, therefore, in pursuance to the motion under seal of said court, to me directed, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming the said steamer I. O. K. or in any manner interested therein, that they be and appear in the district court of the United States in the city of Paducah, Ky., on or before the 7th day of April, 1902 at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to interpose their claims, and to make their allegations in that behalf.

POLICE COURT.

An Alleged Horse Thief Arrested and His Case Continued.

An Alleged Vagrant Did Not Answer and Will Get 30 Days if Caught.

Judge Sanders held a brief session of police court today.

Ben Harris, for a plain drunk, was fined $1 and the costs.

Henry Matthews, colored, who was recognized yesterday, forfeited his recognizance and was sentenced to thirty days on the chain gang. He will be arrested if possible, but it is thought that he has left the city.

Mitchell Williams and Mary Thomas, colored, were arrested by Officers Clark and Everts this morning for immorality, and fined $20 and the costs.

Mary Jefferson's case, for keeping and maintaining a disorderly house, was again continued, and will be taken up tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. The evidence was partially heard this morning.

Eli Sims, colored, who was arrested last night by Officers Gourieux and Potter for horse stealing, was presented this morning, and the case continued until tomorrow morning. Sims had tried to sell the horse to another darkey, who went to the officers to bear witness to the sale, Sims wanting only $2 for the animal. The negro was then arrested and taken to headquarters, where he confessed to taking the animal, claiming that the owner, Arthur White of Worten's addition, owed him $15. White had kept the animal locked up, and Sims broke into the stable.

William Cook, colored, was fined $2 and costs for slapping a boy.

THE ELKS.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS HELD BY PADUCAH LODGE LAST NIGHT.

The Elks held their regular annual election last night, and the following were chosen: William Kraus, exalted ruler; Harry G. Johnston, esteemed leading knight; R. A. Gilbert, esteemed loyal knight; A. W. Grief, esteemed lecturing knight; Richard Rudy, treasurer; A. M. Foreman, tyler; Thomas M. Baird, secretary; Adolph Weil, trustee for three years, the two holding trustees being R. G. Davis, two years, and Samuel B. Hughes, one year.

Exalted Ruler Whitesides was selected as grand lodge representative to go to the reunion at Salt Lake City, with Mr. M. W. Johnson alternate. The officers will be installed at the next meeting, and the appointive officers named.

The executive committee for the carnival made a report of progress, which has been extensive.

The Knights of Haoudap will meet this evening at Elks hall and organize under the direction of Dr. J. Victor Voris. Those who will compose it have been asked in person and others are not expected.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS.

Some Observations of the Effects of Melody on Animals.

The pleasing legend of Orpheus and the wild beasts has lately been put to the proof in Europe in a series of tests to determine whether music hath charms to soothe the savage breast. Not long since a concert was given at the poultry show at Posen. The fowls listened intently, and the only one which did not seem pleased was an old turkey cock, which gave every evidence of noisy disapproval. Herr Boller, the violinist, then made a series of experiments in the German Zoological Gardens with interesting results. A puma was found to be peculiarly susceptible. As soon as the playing began he stretched himself and listened intently, giving every evidence of sensuous pleasure. This continued as long as the music was soft and low, but when the movement and tempo changed and the playing became loud and rapid he sprang to his feet, lashed his tail, and gave every evidence of high nervous excitement, as if he were a Frenchman listening to the "Marschallaise." Leopards showed complete indifference. The lions were nervous and apprehensive, but when the player passed on they lay down and went to sleep. The lion cubs seemed to show a disposition to dance when the music was animated, but the older members of the family were evidently better pleased with allegro measures. Hyenas were badly frightened. The monkeys showed much curiosity, but only one of them displayed evidence of great pleasure. Prairie wolves at first manifested great curiosity, but, having satisfied themselves as to where the sounds came from they arranged themselves in a semi-circle and listened attentively. When the music stopped they pawed the player and seemed to solicit the favor of an encore. The tests are to be continued, with a view to determining if musical perception is a trait in all animals if they get the kind of music which suits them, or only a nervous manifestation in recognition of the unusual and incomprehensible.—London Globe.

THE AMERICAN GIRL.

A Bright Glimpse at Her From Ellen Terry's View.

There is nothing theatrical about Ellen Terry's endorsement of the American girl, as uttered a few days ago in Chicago, says a writer in the New York World. Miss Terry was eating a shrimp salad at the Noonday restaurant of the Kilo Association, where working girls of the city take their daily luncheon in a sort of mutual-helpfulness plan. "No wonder," said the great actress, "you American girls are independent and successful. You are far ahead of English girls in enterprise and business." A similar tribute from a representative of the foreign stage was offered not long ago. Sarah Bernhardt said to an interviewer in Brussels: "I have found the American women much superior to our women. The American girl is elegant and pretty. She marries as late as possible, which is explained by the fact that she enjoys absolute liberty. The young girl in Europe has only one aim, and that is to get married in order to escape from the thraldom of the family. On the other hand, the American girl postpones marriage because, while she is single she avoids the inevitable burden of matrimony." The American girl is a treasure not without appreciation in her own land. We may feel that in the joy of her independence she occasionally delays unduly the establishment of a new home in this land of homes. Yet we know that when at last she yields to the urgings of "the right man" there is none to assume a matron's duties more gracefully and well. Long enjoyment of freedom has then taught her dignity.

SAVING THE FORESTS.

Every Farmer Should Take Care of His Own Little Wood Lot.

At a farmers' institute last winter one of the most ardent speakers in favor of a bill before the Indiana legislature for the preservation of the forests was a farmer who was found later in the year hard at work in his wood lot cutting down trees for firewood. This man was not a fraud by any means, but he failed to see the slightest inconsistency in his action, and yet it seems plain that the only way to preserve the forests is for every farmer to take good care of his own little forest, if he have one, and if he has not, then he should make haste and start the trees. It is all very well to talk about the preservation of the few remaining great forests in the country, and every effort should be made to take care of them, but they will be of little value compared to the five, ten and twenty acre wood lots, if such a one could be found on every farm in the country. If you have a wood lot, take care of it. Keep stock and fire out of it; scatter a few seeds of forest trees over the ground every few years, and do everything possible to preserve your small forest. If there is no wood lot on your farm, set out the trees or sow the seeds next spring on that twenty-acre worn out pasture.—Indianapolis News.

British Writers Left Fortunes.

The fact that Sir Walter Besant died with less than $30,000 to his credit has called attention to the fortunes of other British writers left. Except Sir Walter Scott no novelist has ever made such sums as would be regarded by men in the money market as wealth. Scott's income averaged for years $50,000 a year. Dickens left $400,000, Thackeray less, Bulwer Lytton, with a very keen eye for the main chance and a considerable but encumbered estate $100,000.

AN UNGRACIOUS BRIDE.

Unpleasant Way in Which She Started Her Married Life.

"Yes," said a young man recently, "I saw one bride this fall start her married life all wrong, and if her conduct was as great a shock to her husband's ideas of womanly feeling as it was to mine I feel sorry for him. She was going to have a church wedding, a bridal pageant of beauty and elegance, and as a small accessory an awning was to be erected from the curb to the church entrance. It chanced that immediately following this wedding the son of a modest tradesman in the vicinity was to lead his bride to the same altar. Hearing of it, the fashionable girl called on this young man and suggested that, as he and his bride were to have the use of her awning, it might be as well for him to share the expense of it. This he declined to do, on the ground that his wedding was of so unostentatious a nature as to need no awning, and it certainly had not occurred to him to order one. After some argument, in which neither side yielded, the party separated with the sweet girl bride-to-be intimating that if he did not pay in part for the awning he should not profit by it. The wedding day dawned with crowded church, fragrant flowers, glimmering candles, and all the solemn yet joyful accompaniments of the sacrament of marriage. The fashionable wedding was duly solemnized, and as the tearful bride descended the steps of the sanctuary the modest equipage of the tradesman's son drew up before the edifice. The white-gowned bride, leaving behind her all the sunny memories of maidenhood, standing on the happy threshold of married life, stepped quickly to her carriage, and, then turning, with her own hand gave the signal to waiting workmen to remove the awning. The second bride and groom advanced to the church to the disconcerting ripping asunder of canvas—not half as discordant, however, as the jangling discords that rang through the hearts of the spectators at such an exhibition of evil passion at such a time."—Baltimore Sun.

A WALL STREET CURIOSITY.

Two Rich Landowners Curiously Divide Up Valuable Lots.

When joint owners of real estate wish to effect a division of their holdings the property usually is sold, each owner taking his respective share of the proceeds. But down on Wall street a lot is being partitioned much after the manner in which two boys would "whack up" a piece of pipe or a cent's worth of candy.

No. 56 Wall street adjoins the Central Trust Company building, is owned by George Peabody Wetmore, and 60 Wall street by Mrs. Edith C. Iselin. The building in between these two, No. 58, is the property of Mr. Wetmore and Mrs. Iselin jointly.

Some time ago Mr. Wetmore decided that his building might yield better returns if it were overhauled and a more attractive front put in. It also occurred to him how much better his remodeled structure would look with a frontage of thirty-seven feet instead of twenty-five. He owned a half interest in the adjoining lot, and why should he not have it? Mrs. Iselin offered no objection, and passers-by on Wall street recently have been somewhat mystified by the building of a substantial brick wall along what seemed to be the center of a lot.

The new wall when completed will be the easterly side of Mr. Wetmore's new building. Mrs. Iselin now has a vacant lot about twelve feet wide on her hands—a pretty valuable piece of ground to be idle in such a location, says the New York Times, but hardly available for any purpose unless she shall decide to remodel her building and take in the half-lot just as Mr. Wetmore is doing.

THINKING ABOUT OTHERS.

It is a Foolish Habit and Wastes Valuable Time.

Do not waste what is left of life in regarding other men, except when bent upon some unselfish gain. Why miss opportunities for action by thus persistently regarding what so-and-so is doing and why, what he is saying or thinking or planning, or anything else that dazes and distracts you from allegiance to your inner self? In the sequence of your regards, shun wayward, random thoughts, and, above all, meddling and ill-nature; limit yourself habitually to such regards that if suddenly asked, "What is in your thoughts now?" you could tell at once the candid and unhesitating truth—a direct, plain proof that all your thoughts were simple and in charity, such as befit a social being, who eschews voluptuous or even self-indulgent fancies, or jealousy of any kind, or malice and suspicion, or any other mood which you would blush to own. A man so minded and committed finally to the pursuit of virtue, is indeed a priest and minister of gods, true to that inward and implanted power, which keeps a man unsoiled by pleasure, invulnerable by pain, free from all touch of arrogance, innocent of all baseness, a combatant in the greatest of all combats, which is the mastery of passion, steeped in justice to the core, and with his whole heart welcoming all that befalls him as his portion; seldom, and only in view of some large, unselfish gain, does he regard what other conduct is his sole concern, and he realizes without fail the web of his own destiny.—Marcus Aurelius.

The White House Livery.
A cockade of red, white and blue is a noticeable feature of the new White House livery, although the national colors are in evidence throughout the costume in which the president's coachman and footman appeared a few weeks ago. The coats and the trousers are of heavy dark blue vicuña, the best quality of goods obtainable being used. The outer seams of the trousers are bound with a white cord. The long paddock driving coat, which terminates midway between knee and ankle, is of "military" cut and has a snug waist and broad square shoulders. The skirt has a decided flare. Down the front from the tight fitting, narrow collar to the waist line run parallel lines of silver buttons. Underneath the coat is worn a long-sleeved tunic of the same material as the other garments, and fastened in front by a single row of silver buttons. Mrs. Roosevelt selected the material and the pattern for the livery, which was given to a fashionable

SUN'S DAILY STORY MATILDA'S MUNITY.

BY SARA LINDSAY COLEMAN.
(Copyright, 1902, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)
Polly Fox, who six months before had gladly left the village's ever increasing sisterhood of spinsters to become the wife of the Reverend Mr. Fox and mother to the little and big Foxes, said to her husband, as Matilda, tall and trim, swung down the village street at a pace that comes from strength:

"It's plum scan'lous—she's got on a short skirt an' her hair down her back. It's her birthday an' she ain't done a lick o' work to-day. Jes' left it all for her mar an' Mary. Sed she'd been slavin' ten year, sence she come home from college, an' she intended havin' a day off. They done a bad thing for her when they sent her to college. She got quare notions an' has flouted every man in the village. I don't reckon she'll flout any more."

Matilda left the village behind her and plunged into a near wood. She flung herself full length on the ground and lay there motionless. Life had brought her nothing of what she had dreamed.

There was a flash of moving color and a burst of song in the silent wood; below, the river roared and tumbled in its eager seaward rush. June lay on the wide, wonderful mountains—June, with its glory of color, its abundant young life; and the June time which lives in the souls of unwed women was in Matilda. The June time! It revolted at life and death in a country village; it scorned the spinsters with their sharp tongues, their sagging shoulders and sagging hips, their dulled lives of toil.

Suddenly Matilda got to her feet and began heaping up the earth into a mound; she worked industriously and when she tossed back the heavy braid of hair that had slipped over her shoulder she laughed—a reckless laugh.

"It's almost amusing," she said. "If I were in the secret I am sure I would agree with you." The voice was not far off that had spoken the words. Matilda turned with the air of an insulted princess. The short skirt, the braided hair accentuated the youthful look.

"This," she said, haughtily, "is a private wood."

"And I am on a fence," was the calm reply, "and beyond is the king's highway."

Matilda gave the stranger a grave looking over but he stood unflinchingly.

"The ceremony was about completed," she spoke more graciously, "the song comes next." She threw back her head and sang in a clear, fresh voice, "How tedious and tasteless the hours."

At the end of the first line she stopped and laughed.

"You are putting away the dolls and playthings of life?" the man asked.

"I found that the dolls were sawdust and put them away twenty-five years ago." This in a disdainful tone.

"What an ancient you are," said the man.

"Yes," humbly.

The man got down from the fence and came over to Matilda.

"What did you bury there?" he asked, indicating the mound.

"My youth," she spoke defiantly.

"Ye gods!" the man burst into laughter.

Matilda came a little nearer.

"You are a southerner and a gentleman," she said. "I know from your voice and your eyes. I'm celebrating. It's my birthday. At first I wept. You should have seen the glances that followed me down the street. I know how their tongues wagged when they saw my hair down my back; they all know that I am thirty."

"Well," said the man, "what if you are! I've known women of thirty who were much nicer than white-muscled, blue-ribboned, giggling girls."

"Out there," with a comprehensive oh, how I hate widowers!" She made a gesture of despair.

"You might try suicide," the man suggested.

"I've thought of it," said Matilda, darkly.

They looked at each other. The sun filtering through the trees flung coins of gold at their feet.

"It's my birthday," the man spoke slowly. "We might celebrate together; we might have one last day of youth."

A sudden wistfulness shone in Matilda's eyes, but she shook her head.

"It would be the one delicious, isolated impropriety of your life."

She looked at him doubtfully.

"You've let the hand go down the other street all your days?"

"Yes," pensively.

"You have done the things you hate and left undone the things you'd love to do."

"How did you know?" she asked.

He trampled the grave she had made—the grave that held her youth and pointed to the water below, where a boat rocked softly.

"Come," he said.

Matilda moved slowly from him in the direction of the church spire.

"The music," murmured the man impressively, "is going down the other street."

"Where are we going?" asked Matilda. She had stepped into the boat.

"To a land of mutual discovery," he said gayly. "It leads through winding paths; perhaps it returns to the level; perhaps it goes to the heights—"

Matilda's heart had leaped to her throat at the look he gave her. It was a strange proceeding for so aged a heart that had put aside all youthful follies.

The boat moved slowly; the river

"We have had to-day," swept away into the forest's depths.

Their laughter was the spontaneous laughter of two who find content in each other's presence; their silence held no estrangement.

A purple mist settled on the blue mountains that belted the distance; from some near hill, a milkmaid's call floated. The knowls above them were massed in bloom. A deep sweet happiness filled the woman's soul. It was but just that life out of its fullness should have given her this one last day of youth.

The boat turned homeward. The sun, a ball of fire, was dropping behind a far-mountain peak. It was dragging her off to a dream country from which she would wake in a shiver. Alas, that from dreams the dreamers awake. But the boat crept on—in the perfumed gloom the laurel crowned hills were white. It was still a dream. A school girl dream came true. A castle built on lonely evenings when the wind had shivered and the thoughts were long, long thoughts—a castle turned to gleaming marble.

The boat touched the landing. For an instant the man felt the pressure of her light weight; then she stood beside him on the river bank.

"Good-by," said Matilda. She held out her hand; her eyes had a strange sweetness—the sweetness of a joy relinquished at birth, laid reverently away with her one day of youth.

"Good-by," she faltered, "it grows late."

"Good-by?" the man said, puzzled.

Then he laughed down into her eyes, "Good-by until tomorrow."

"We have had to-day," said Matilda. "And will have to-morrow." The man's boat shot out into the stream.

Matilda climbed the hill that led to the village—the dreary village. And in the west where the day was fast dying the star that comes first to the waiting sky glowed.

Repartee That Hurt.

A correspondent at Ithaca, N. Y., sends the Record the following street car incident: One of the last sharp November days a boy entered the car leaving the door open, much to the discomfort of an old gentleman who sat next. As the wind chilled his marrow his temper rose. Leaning across his seat and taking the kid by the ear he said: "Were you brought up in a barn? Why don't you shut the door?" The boy said nothing, but closed the door, coming back to his seat in tears. This sight moved the old man to relenting pity. "There, there," he said, "little man, I didn't really mean you were brought up in a barn." "That's just it," retorted the kid. "I was

ANOTHER POSTPONMENT.

The Bond Case Will Go over for Another Term of Court.

The Suit for Interest, However, will be Tried, It is Probable.

It will doubtless be some time before the bond suits that have been pending in the federal court here against the city of Paducah for the past three years go to trial. There are two suits, one to collect the interest due on the coupons of the over-the-river bonds, amounting to several thousand dollars, and the suit of the bond brokers, Roberts and Co. of New York, against the city of Paducah for $10,000 for breach of contract.

It was about three years ago that the council decided to refund about $66,000 bonds of the Paducah and St. Louis railroad, and Roberts and Co. of New York agreed to buy the refunding bonds at a lower rate of interest than the city was then paying. All arrangements were made, but the council suddenly decided that it didn't want to refund the bonds, and claimed that they were illegal, and could not be refunded, which position was taken at the advice of the city attorney.

The bonds were not refunded, and when the next payment of interest became due, the council found that it could not pay the interest if the bonds were illegal, and as it had decided the bonds were illegal, the city defaulted on the interest.

Roberts and Co., who had already contracted to sell the bonds at a profit of $10,000, soon brought suit for that amount, and a year or more ago the holders of a number of the bonds in St. Louis brought suit against the city to collect the defaulted interest, which now amounts to twelve or sixteen thousand dollars. The case has been continued from time to time, with the costs piling up, and it was given out today that an agreement has been made to again continue the Roberts suit when federal court convenes here next month.

This is because the question of the validity of the bonds is involved in both suits, and an effort is to be made to try the suits to collect the interest, and when it is decided the other will be tried.
